The University of California, Riverside Turfgrass Program offers an online resource for professional turfgrass managers and home lawn owners. The website is designed to be a user-friendly communication vehicle, a clearinghouse of accurate information for the turfgrass industry, government agencies, and the public. Included in the website are 1) publications and links sections, 2) information about turfgrass educational programs and Green Industry organizations in California, and 3) the University of California, Riverside Turfgrass Research Advisory Committee (UCRTRAC).
